

Connecting To Your Wireless Router on Vista

First of all click the start button in the bottom left hand corner, then click on Connect To half way up the menu (see diagram A below). Once done you will have screen B.

Once on screen B, change “Show” to wireless and not “All”, as circled in diagram B. Then locate your Network. This should be called TP LINK. Once located, left click and highlight the network. Then click connect in the bottom right of the window. Once you have done this it will ask you for your Wireless Key. Simply type in the key you have been given (see the top of this guide), once typed, click Connect. After another couple of minutes it will tell you, you have connected successfully. Then click Close in the bottom right of the new window that has appeared, you are now connected wirelessly.
